

Common Sense Media

<https://www.common sense media.org/>

Gives reviews and ratings for all types of media, from books to games to apps. They cover just about everything. These reviews are not necessarily from a Christian perspective. However, the reviews break down the information in an easier to read format than Plugged in or CCG (see below).

Christ Centered Gamer (CCG)

<https://www.christcenteredgamer.com/>

Does only Video game reviews. Has a larger selection than PluggedIn and is about on par with Common Sense. Written from a Christian perspective. However, this is more of a blog format, meaning not all the reviews have the same author, so writing styles change.

PluggedIn

<http://www.pluggedin.com/>

A Focus on the Family Company. Both Movies and Games. Does a pretty good job with video games reviews and telling you what is in it.

Entertainment Software Rating Board - ESRB

<https://www.esrb.org/>

The company that rates all games that are in the USA. Both physical and Digital games are rated by the ESRB. They have some helpful information on their website, as well as a search function to find games they have reviewed.

Family Link by Google

<https://aph.works/I/FamilyLink>

Early stages right now. An app that can allow parents to create a Google Account for 13 and under children that can be monitored. Works on Android 7.0+

6 Tech Habits Changing the US Home - Barna

<https://aph.works/I/TechHabits>

Barna is a Christian research firm. The study was done for a book The Tech-Wise Family looking into digital trends and how they have changed our homes and families.

The Tech-Wise Family

<https://aph.works/I/Tech-Wise>

“Reclaiming real life in a world of devices. Making conscientious choices about technology in our families is more than just using internet filters and determining screen time limits for our children. It’s about developing wisdom, character, and courage in the way we use digital media rather than accepting technology’s promises of ease, instant gratification, and the world’s knowledge at our fingertips. And it’s definitely not just about the kids.”
